

Burger bash to benefit Dravet Syndrome effort

by Renss Greene

The Northern Neck Burger Co., 62 Irvington Road, Kilmarnock, will host an awareness and fundraising event from 3 to 10 p.m. Monday, June 23, for the first Dravet Syndrome Awareness Day.

Dravet Syndrome is a rare form of epilepsy which begins in infancy and for which there is currently no cure. Affected children suffer multiple seizure types and developmental delays. According to the Dravet Syndrome Foundation, it affects about 1 in 30,000 children. Currently there are few treatment options for children afflicted with Dravet Syndrome.

Northern Neck Burger Co. will donate 10% of sales during the promotion to the Dravet Syndrome Foundation in honor of Haley Smith, a local child with Dravet Syndrome, according to her mother, Lisa Smith.

Author to discuss his book showing Virginia Tech shooting failures

Author David Cariens Jr. will review his book, Virginia Tech: Make Sure It Doesn't Get Out, for the Books Alive! program at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 24, at the Northumberland Public Library, 7204 Northumberland Highway, Heathsville.

A retired CIA officer, Cariens is harshly critical of the handling of one of the nation's worst school shootings before, during, and after the fatal day in April 2007, when 32 people were killed and 17 wounded on the Virginia Tech campus.

According to Cariens, the failures were numerous. Incompetence of school officials, broken communications, and failure to follow emergency procedures were just a few. In addition, misunderstanding of the privacy laws allowed authorities to ignore the killer's warning signs.

The book took four years of research, interviews and drafting. For the first time, 11 Tech families tell their stories in one book, he said. It includes an account of the shooting from a survivor. Several families speak candidly about their experiences in what they see as a cover-up by those accountable for the tragedy. He concludes that the massacre was preventable.

"The families were very supportive," said Cariens. "I contacted 14 school officials asking to interview them or offering to print any reflections they had. All declined. I am very pleased that a first responder to Norris Hall, State Highway Patrolman Gary Chafin, agreed to be interviewed. And the Blacksburg Police Chief answered my questions."

Cariens has been a victim's rights advocate since January 16, 2002, when the mother of his oldest grandchild was gunned down at the Appalachian School of Law in Grundy. That led to his book, A Question of Accountability: The Murder of Angela Dales.

As part of the Virginia Tech project, the author analyzed the Governor's Review Panel Report, exposing the document's serious shortcomings, including its failure to name individuals and to hold them accountable for their actions and inactions.

"In the final analysis, no matter how much money is spent on security systems and plans, it all boils down to the human factor. The authorities failed miserably on April 16, 2007. They were never held accountable. Until there is accountability there, I see no progress toward campus security," Cariens said, adding, "If the warning signs had been taken seriously and the school's existing security plans followed, many lives would have been saved."

Discussion, book signing, and refreshments will follow the review. The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Northumberland Public Library.

Community Service Award will be presented at CAPINNÉ gala

The Northern Neck Rotary Club recently announced the 2014 recipient of its annual Community Service Award is Ed Fuehrer for his leadership in the area, most recently with the Northern Neck Boys and Girls Club.

Fuehrer moved to the area permanently from Northern Virginia in 1997 and has been involved in community activities in some manner ever since, reported club publicist Roy Cameron.

Fuehrer graduated from the University of Georgia with a degree in landscape architecture and entered the Navy, serving aboard the USS Vance. Following his Navy career he entered the private arena and worked as an urban planner and later a real estate developer in the Washington, D.C., area until 1997.

Having owned property here since 1978 and telling people that he lived here but just happened to spend five days a week in Washington, Fuehrer moved here and established Story-Book Homes of Virginia in 1997. In 2005 he accepted a position at Rappahannock Westminster-Canterbury to explore and implement the expansion of the facility and management of the physical infrastructure of the campus.

During this time Fuehrer served as a founding member of the Lancaster County Chamber of Commerce Workforce Enhancement Partnership Board; five years as a member of the Lancaster County Chamber of Commerce, three years as president; participated in a team to restructure and reposition the Lancaster Players playhouse and served as president for two years; and served on a committee to investigate relocating and planning a new facility for the Lancaster Community Library.

Ed Fuehrer

In 2007, he became a founding member of the Boys and Girls Club of the Northern Neck. In 2008, he was named president of the board, a position he still holds.

"You don't have to talk to Ed long to see that his abundant energy and enthusiasm are focused on the club and its mission of assisting children to grow into adulthood," said Cameron. "He will tell you that he became involved in the program which focused on character building with sports and other activities to keep the kids interested."

Back in the day, Fuehrer said that he heard a person whom he admired point out that they had been richly blessed and needed to give back to the community which made it possible. During the organization of the Boys and Girls Club, he met Warren

Buffet's wife, Doris, an important club benefactor, who expanded on this thought with her philosophy of paying it forward to the next generation.

The Boys and Girls Club serves those most in need, according to Fuehrer, and the need exists primarily due to the breakdown of traditional family interactions.

"Working with kids is, at times, like opening your cabinet at home and finding cans with no labels. There is a surprise in every one," said Fuehrer.

The national club says that it is organized chaos and in the beginning here it was absolute bedlam, he continued. Now it is such a pleasure to see the organization that has developed over the years. Now the fruits are beginning to be seen. The kids have progressed academically, in behavior, and in their ability to peer mentor.

Fuehrer's leadership and planning skills have been an integral part of the success of the Boys and Girls Club of the Northern Neck, said Cameron. The nearly 400 kids touched annually by the organization will likely agree.

He joins a growing list of community leaders who exemplify the Rotary Motto "Service Above Self." Prior winners include Joe Curry, Carroll Ashburn, Doug Monroe, Jean Nelson, Connie Deagle, Tom Gosse, Austin Roberts, Dr. Rocky Tingle, Dr. Elizabeth "Sissy" Crowther, Wardell Carter, Margaret Nost and Paul Sciacchitano.

Formal presentation of the award will be made at the Northern Neck Rotary Club's annual CAPINNÉ Charity Gala at Indian Creek Yacht and Country Club on July 19. For tickets, call 435-4169.

'Marley' dedication slated at farmers market on Saturday

A field full of vendors is expected at the Heathsville Farmers' Market from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 21, at Rice's Hotel/Hughlett's Tavern, 73 Monument Place, Heathsville.

"We've got a record number of vendors signed up to come," said market manager Corinne Anthony.

In addition to farm-fresh produce, shoppers will find honey, free-range heritage breed pork, hand-thrown pottery, colorful clothing items, hand-made soaps and creams, funky macrame jewelry, upscale beaded jewelry and handcrafted Windsor chairs, said Anthony. Artists will be at work at their easels.

"Plein Air Paint-Out" is the theme of the market, she added.

"The term 'plein air' refers to setting up an easel and painting outdoors," said Anthony. "A number of local artists will be scattered across the field, painting Farmers Market scenes."

At 9:30 a.m., "Marley the Tavern Horse" will be dedicated. Several local students and their parents will be honored for painting the life-size horse statue that now graces the entrance to the Carriage House, sheltering the Tavern's antique carriage collection.

An historical walking tour of Heathsville's Town Square will start at 10:15 a.m. Docents will leave from in front of the Transportation Museum Building and guide participants through the old jail, the old courthouse and the Tavern.

An historic landmark since the 1700s, Rice's Hotel/Hughlett's Tavern is home to four active artisan guilds, which will all be demonstrating and selling their wares. This includes the Blacksmiths, the Woodworkers, the Quilters and the Spinners and Weavers.

The Tavern Quilt Guild will sell raffle tickets for two hand-quilted replica Civil War "Cot Quilts."

The Spinners and Weavers Guild will host an official site for "Worldwide Knit in Public Day." Donations of yarn for charity knitting will be accepted.

Breakfast sandwiches, hot dogs, hamburgers, barbecue and beverages will be on sale. The Tavern Restaurant is open for sit-down lunch and dinner. Call 580-7900 for reservations.

Birthplace seeks volunteers to help with shoreline project

George Washington Birthplace National Monument is one of 23 national park sites selected to receive a 2014 Impact Grant from the National Park Foundation, the official charity of America's national parks. The grant will support restoring native plants along a section of shoreline.

The National Park Service has been performing exotic plant removal at the monument for several years. Bringing back native vegetation, however, is crucial to stop invasive plant recolonization. Restoring native plants also helps reestablish habitat for native birds and other animals, as well as capture sediment and prevent erosion.

"We are pleased and proud to have received this grant from the National Park Foundation," said park superintendent Melissa Cobern. "The shoreline here is vulnerable in many ways and this grant will help us take a big step toward protecting it."

"Through our Impact Grants, we will help make a profound difference in our national parks by providing much-needed funding for projects that support habitat restoration, wildlife protection, and conservation research," said National Park Foundation president and chief executive officer Neil Mulholland.

The park will complete the project June 20 and 21 with staff and volunteers. To help with the project, contact Dick Lahey at 224-1732, ext. 235 or richard_lahey@nps.gov. Volunteers must be at least 12 years of age and in good physical health.

Library will launch daylily sale June 28

Four hundred varieties of award-winning daylilies in bloom will go on sale at the Northumberland Library Daylily Sale, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 28.

The sale will be held at a garden on Courthouse Road in Heathsville, just a short walk from the library at 7204 Northumberland Highway. Buyers can choose the blooms—sold in double fans, fill out order forms that identify the selections, and pay for their purchases (cash or checks only).

There will be signs pointing the way and a sandwich board in front of the garden. Refreshments will be served, plus people will be on hand to help identify the locations of the double fans.

During the blooming season, buyers can view photos of the daylilies at nplva.com, where they also may print an order form and then mail in with payment, or drop the order at the library.

Daylily gardener Bill Kirby said the sales are "first come, first served." The first day will be the best time to shop, he added.

A garden of award-winning daylilies will greet buyers at the Northumberland Public Library Daylily Sale.

At the end of the blooming season, folks may pick up their purchases from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. September 27 at the Courthouse Road garden.

Fall is the prime time to replant for beautiful flowers next season, said Kirby.

"The real attraction will be the award-winning daylilies in bloom," said Friends of the Library president Ellen Kirby.

The sale is a joint venture of the Friends and the library trustees. All sales support the Northumberland Public Library.

Heritage of America Band to perform in Irvington on July 1

The Town of Irvington will host the United States Air Force Heritage of America Concert Band from Joint Base Langley-Eustis, at 7 p.m. July 1 on the Irvington Commons. The concert will consist of marches, light classics and patriotic pieces.

The band is comprised of 60 active-duty U.S. Air Force Airmen, reported Jill Worth. The musicians are from the diverse regions of the U.S. and have extensive experience and education.

Capt. Michael D. Hoerber is commander and conductor, said Worth. He aids in overseeing more than 350 annual musical presentations and multimedia productions by squadron ensembles.

Capt. Hoerber joined the U.S. Air Force in July 2006. Upon graduation as a distinguished graduate from Officer Training School at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Ala., he was assigned as deputy commander/assistant conductor of the

Capt. Michael D. Hoerber

Heartland of America Band at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Neb. He returned to Maxwell AFB in January 2007 to attend the USAF Air and Space Basic Course. In the spring of 2011, he deployed to Southwest Asia as the officer in charge of the U.S. Air Forces Central Band for six months.

Prior to joining the Air Force, Capt. Hoerber served three years as music director of the North Valley Chamber Orchestra at Paradise Valley Community College and four years as director of bands at Paradise Valley High School in Phoenix, Ariz. Additionally, he was the assistant conductor for the Tempe Symphony Orchestra from 2000-2006.

"The Town of Irvington and the Village Improvement Association which sponsor the concert are delighted to invite the community to this free concert and urge them to bring their blankets or chairs and picnic baskets," said Worth.

Dorothy B. B. Sting

LANCASTER—Dorothy Bieri Blynn Sting, loving mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, passed away on June 9, 2014, at the home of her beloved daughter and son-in-law, Lucy and Warren Hottle, in Lancaster. She was 100 years old and lived a long, fruitful life and died a short, peaceful death.

Mrs. Sting was born in Saginaw, Mich., on January 13, 1914, to Gottlieb and Helen Brownrigg Bieri, and relocated to Virginia eight years ago.

During her rich and productive life, Dorothy exemplified the strength of her generation. Her interests spanned a variety of fields, including a long and distinguished career as a dedicated teacher and educator. She was an accomplished gardener whose "slice of heaven" garden was featured in The Saginaw News, where readers could see her "Gardening Tills My Soul" motto and know by the beauty and lushness of her plants that the motto was true.

Dorothy was also an avid reader of historical novels and in later years, large-print mysteries. She enjoyed traveling, was famous for her strawberry jam, and especially enjoyed her grandchildren and great-grandchildren as well as her dog Beau and long-time feline companion, Kitty Sunshine.

Never one to be idle, Dorothy also enjoyed hand sewing while watching her favorite quiz show on TV. If the mending was all caught up, she could often be seen indulging a sweet tooth in anything lemon, including pie, muffins and cookies.

She was devout in her religious beliefs and drew much hope and comfort as well as moral and ethical guidance from them. As a member of the Michigan Avenue Baptist Church in Saginaw for over 80 years, she served in many leadership positions and maintained close friendships throughout the years in spite of relocating.

The road to her long educational career began in 1931 when she graduated from Arthur Hill High School in Saginaw. Following this she graduated from Saginaw County Normal School and began teaching in one-room, rural school houses before becoming a teacher and then principal in the city school system and retiring in 1978.

Along the way she earned her bachelor's at Central Michigan University, a master's at the University of Michigan and a post graduate degree at Michigan State University.

Right up until her death Dorothy treasured her deep and continuing friendship with her teachers and professional colleagues.

She was an active member of the honorary teacher's society, Delta Kappa Gamma, Retired Teachers Association and the International Business and Professional Women's Association.

Since moving to Virginia, Dorothy enjoyed being a part of the Yankee Point Racing and Cruising Club and St. Mary's White Chapel Episcopal Church. She was also a supporter of Hospice Support Services of the Northern Neck.

Dorothy was predeceased by her daughter, Suzanne Blynn Laman and is survived by her daughter, Lucy Marsden Hottle; her sons-in-law, Warren Hottle and Edward N. Laman; her step-son, Roger L. Sting; her grandchildren, Peter Blynn Marsden, Sara Marsden Ulich, Justin Blynn Laman, Mark Hottle and Nancy Sting Andrews; her great-grandchildren, Tucker, Drew, John and Adam Marsden, and Gwendolyn and Nathan Ulich.

Dorothy was dedicated to excellence and will be remembered as a rare and unfailing example of both leadership and humility. It was her wish to impart the following message from the Book of Micah 6:8 to those she knew and loved over her lifetime:

... what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with your God

A celebration of Dorothy's life will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 5, at St. Mary's White Chapel Episcopal Church, Lively.

In lieu of flowers Dorothy requested that donations could be made to Hospice Support Services of the Northern Neck, P.O. Box 262, Warsaw, VA 22572.

Reflections

by Rev. John Farmer

Losing Control

Last Sunday evening while Hazel and I were dining at the Crazy Crab, Reedville, Wendell Haynie strolled over to our table and complimented me on the Reflection articles appearing weekly in this paper.

Our party had arrived in Reedville by both land and sea, in a staging rendezvous to position two yachts for an early Monday departure when the Walkers and Tomlinsons, of Indian Creek, would sail away. The Nunnally, Andrews, and Farmers would motor home.

But I digress, let me start in the beginning: Sunday morning at the Irvington Baptist Church we were scheduled to baptize Bobbie Edwards, that affable chap who's been in the produce aisle, Tri-Star, for centuries.

The night before, I'd climbed the stairs to begin filling our baptismal pool. We Baptists require a bit more water than some; we need it waist-deep. We then plunge the candidate further below... total immersion.

When I arrived at church Sunday, I climbed the stairs, through the new wing, and over to the old, to check the water level and temperature. Upon unlocking the door down into the pool, I was overcome with a wave of heat—my glasses fogged over. I groped for the lift that opens the stained glass window, and fresh-air rushed in from the sanctuary below.

Wow! Thermostat malfunction... it was hot.

Quickly, I shut off the power. After Sunday School I climbed the stairs again. Donned my white robe, and began my sojourn down into the pool.

When my left foot and hem of my robe sank to the first level, I gasped aloud. The water was still so hot it burned my foot and leg.

Musicians Carolyn Graham and Hazel Farmer were waiting the opening of the stained glass window to rest their fingers. Hmm, what to do, what to do?

Mind you, I am barefoot, partially injured, and clothed in a white robe, with water dripping from the hem.

Back through the building, down the stairs I trod; walking directly behind Deacon Wayne

Nunnally who had rushed to the pulpit unawares that the window would not open as planned.

Tapping Wayne on the shoulder, and calling for Deacon Jimmy Robertson, I shared with the congregation the problem with the hot water pool. I instructed Jimmy to go somewhere and gather unto himself: bags of ice and douse them in the pool.

The congregation was giggling at my dishevelment, no shoes, dripping robe, red flushed face... oh, yeah, I forgot to mention that I am usually not in full attire beneath the robe, for as soon as I perform a baptism I climb from the pool, drop my wet robe, retreat into a rest room, remove my wet undergarments, re-clothe myself, rush down the stairs through the building and reappear back into the sanctuary.

I realized that the robe, while

I realized that the robe, while not transparent, did reveal a bit more of the preacher than the congregation was accustomed to viewing.

not transparent, did reveal a bit more of the preacher than the congregation was accustomed to viewing.

A bit of chat, a hymn, then Deacon Jimmy moved beside me with the news that the pool was "cooled." Turning the service back over to Deacon Wayne, I retreated back through the building, up the stairs, across the rear wings, and back down into the pool.

At the top step I found Terry Tignor wading off into the pool, shoving blocks of ice, iced soda bottles, ice cream containers, and bags of chemical ice, all about, trying to bring down the temperature.

I motioned for Denise Robertson to send her poor dad down into the water, flip the switch to raise the window, and begin the baptism.

Terry surfs to the steps, almost knocking me into the water. Denise is giggling over in the side area, and I have lost complete control. The rushing about, the up and down stairs drill at my ripe age of 71, the astonished look on poor Bobbie's face, Terry's dilemma at being almost exposed to the congregation with her wet attire and I am thinking: The preacher will be fired for lack of decorum, TODAY!

Bobbie is now in the pool and I've instructed him to grasp my left wrist. I'm going to shove my handkerchief across his nose and mouth and plunge him to the "watery grave."

He grabbed me. I cover his face and down he goes... or should have. As I take him down, his natural instinct takes over and he starts crabbing backwards. He is now backing up the steps, whereupon we banged his head on the way beneath the water.

Bobbie was recovering from eye surgery and I just knew I had undone the doctor's work.

The congregation is shifting about in their seats, giggling and trying to calm themselves, to no avail.

I cued Denise; the window went down upon the comedy.

I dashed up the pool steps, dropped my robe, rushed to the room into which I was to dress... AND, found the door locked. None aloft had a key. Six of us adults were regaled with laughter at such an out-of-control high-Holy hour.

Deacon Jimmy took off down the stairs and returned with a key. I dressed, and re-entered to the sanctuary as Deacon Wayne decided he would have to preach. The congregation is bursting with laughter.

I exploded a five-minute sermon and brought the family of faith to a closing hymn.

It's over, it's over, I am thinking.

Out of the corner of my eye I notice Burdett Warwick approaching. He's going to join church.

He did, and after a rousing vote by the faithful, gave his testimony of how much the church meant to him, how the congregation had loved him through a dark time, and his resolve to strengthen our fellowship by his promised stewardship.

So, thanks Wendell. By the way... how was your last day at church?

Rev. John Farmer has been the pastor at Irvington Baptist Church since 1986.

Sounds of Grace

Rain brought the first Graceful Summer Sounds concert of the 2014 season indoors where the gospel sounds of Total Commitment echoed through Grace Episcopal Church facilities at 303 South Main Street, Kilmarnock. The final concert on Wednesday, June 25, will feature The Blue Aces, a USAF Heritage of America Band soft rock ensemble. Grounds will open at 6 p.m. for picnics. The concert will begin at 7 p.m. Bring chairs or blankets.

The Rev. Dr. W. Clay Macaulay, pastor of Campbell Memorial Presbyterian Church, and Weems neighbors John Hunt and B.H.B. Hubbard III judge the strawberry pie contest at the Strawberry Strum hosted by the church for Weems residents on June 1. They awarded the blue ribbon to Fran Kelly, a member of Campbell Church.

Campbell opens 125th anniversary celebration with a Strawberry Strum

To kick off its 125th anniversary and celebrate the enduring friendship between Campbell Memorial Presbyterian Church and the Village of Weems, church members hand-delivered invitations to Weems neighbors for a Strawberry Strum on June 1.

More than 100 people gathered in the church playground for homemade strawberry shortcake, face-painting and children's games, pie-baking and pie-eating contests, and the music of guitar-playing singers Toby and Larry of Gloucester. Jim Kelly, friend of Campbell Church, joined the musicians with a solo of "Molly Malone."

Introduced by Jay Tims with a joke about the preacher, the banker and the lawyer, Campbell's pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. Clay Macaulay, and Weems residents John Hunt and B.H. B. Hubbard III judged the strawberry pie contest, the first at Campbell since 1889 when strawberry festivals were staged to raise money for the church building fund. Of eight entries, Fran Kelly's pie was named Grand Winner, and Fran received a strawberry apron hand-made by church member Sallie Dashiell.

Not only did the Strum bring Weems neighbors together on a glorious Sunday afternoon, but church members enjoyed together the bustle of preparation, reported Jane Tims. Marjory Willis, Fran Kelly, Rosemary Francis, Sandy Latner and Lynne Engstrom made shortcakes in the church kitchen. Jay Wallin found the musicians. Charles Haydon, Laura Hall, Dr. Patricia Monge-Meberg, the Kellys and Debby Hoyt walked door-to-door with invitations. The Engstrom family scrubbed picnic tables and the playground fence. Nancy Newlin dished out ice cream; Dashiell painted children's (and some adults') cheeks.

Campbell's anniversary celebration will continue September 6 with a concert in the sanctuary. The Rev. Dr. James Wilson, who served Campbell Church as pastor from 1960 to '67, will return from Atlanta to preach at the anniversary worship service September 7.
